

The Economical Auto Soap

MOBO Auto Soap goes further and preserves the varnish because it is a 100% pure vegetable oil soap and contains no free alkali. Cheap soaps are cheap because they are quickly made of inferior materials and the result is free alkali which inevitably dries out the varnish and makes it crumbly.

For real economy insist on MOBO AUTO SOAP.

Diech, 590 Broadway will attend the Engineer camp at Camp Dix, New Jersey; Robert B. Dennis, R. F. D. 4, Infantry camp, Plattsburg Barracks, New York, and Ernest A. Ritch, 193 Clifton Avenue, Signal Corps camp, Camp Vail, New Jersey. They will take the "red" or basic course in military training. The camps open on August 2nd and last for one month.

It is stated that a large number of applicants from Ulster county have requested assignment to the Field Artillery camp which will be located at Montauk Point, Long Island. The army authorities will make every effort to keep the Ulster county delegation to that camp intact. The training there is to be given under the supervision of the Sixth Field Artillery of the Regular Army, which contains the battery which fired the first American shot in the World War. One battalion at Montauk Point returned this month from Germany after nearly five consecutive years of service in France and on the Rhine river.

The Thrifty Citizen Who Caught the Plugged Nickel

MR. BROWN had swallowed his lunch and had paid his bill. Cautiously he counted his change. "Here!" he said, sharply, "Take back this plugged nickel and give me a good one!"

Mr. Brown walked proudly out. They couldn't fool old Brown.

But old Brown had fooled himself.

Brown's day was heavy and dull. He lacked "pep." There was a mid-afternoon drowsy spell when he needed to be awake—the direct and natural result of heavy, starchy breakfasts and lunches, taken on faith and without question as to value—just because the food looked and tasted like food.

Thousands of shrewd business men who count their change, take their food for granted.

That's what builds up the sanitarium business, and puts the tired "all-done" feeling into the mid-afternoon of a business day.

Grape-Nuts is a scientific food whose delicious, appetizing flavor and crispness are an introduction to well-balanced nourishment—a nourishment easily and quickly assimilated, so that body, brain and nerves are well fed and kept free of the stored-up poisons left by so many ill-selected foods.

Served with cream or good milk, Grape-Nuts is a complete food, always ready, always a delight to the taste—and always a safe selection for the man who thinks his stomach is entitled to some of the same protection he gives to his pocket.

MGR. PHELAN DIES AFTER GAME FIGHT

Death Due To Bullet Wound Inflicted Tuesday When He Accidentally Shot Himself With An Old Revolver—At One Time Assigned To Parishes In Ulster County.

Mgr. Michael J. Phelan, 80 years old, builder of six Catholic churches in his fifty-two years of priesthood, died at St. Cecilia's Church, New York, at 3:40 o'clock Wednesday night in St. Vincent's Hospital, in New York. Death was due to a bullet wound inflicted from the heart, inflicted on Tuesday when Mr. Phelan picked up an old revolver in his rectory, 122 East 106th street, and accidentally shot himself.

Father Phelan was born in Ireland and when he came here as a young boy entered St. Mary's Parochial School in Grand street, later attending college in Canada. While attending college he began his priestly studies, and finally entered St. Joseph's Seminary in Troy, N. Y., where he was ordained in 1870. His first assignment was to the Church of Holy Innocents, in 37th street, west of Broadway, and then he was assigned to St. Peter's, in Barclay street. After serving there for a while he was directed to be assistant rector at the Church of the Presentation, Port Ewen, N. Y., establishing churches at Esopus and Eddyville.

His rectorship of St. Cecilia's came in 1884, and when he went there he once began the building of the present church. In 1898 he opened a parish school, following this with a house for the St. Cecilia Lyceum and the St. Cecilia Day Nursery.

A STATE RIGHTS DECISION.

Nobody will see in the Supreme Court's decision that the Federal Child Labor Law of 1919 is unconstitutional a backward step in child labor reform or regulation. The highest court has merely declared the law invalid on the ground that the regulation of child labor properly belongs to the state. It was inevitable, however, that the decision should cause surprise. For many years the Supreme Court has appeared to lean in its decisions toward the principle of Federal centralization rather than toward the principle of state rights. Yet this opinion, delivered by Chief Justice Taft with no dissent announced, holds that Congress through its taxing power can not regulate "something entirely within the jurisdiction of the various states in the exercise of their police power," that "local self-government" must be maintained, that Congress can not "take over to its control any one of the great number of subjects of public interest, jurisdiction of which the states have never parted with, and which are reserved to them by the Tenth Amendment," for to do this is "to break down all Constitutional limitations of the powers of Congress and completely wipe out the sovereignty of the States."

But is not wiping out of the sovereignty of the States already just about complete? Formerly it was held by many Republicans and by practically all Democrats, on constitutional grounds, that such matters as the regulation of the suffrage and of the liquor traffic properly belonged to the States, and that neither woman suffrage nor prohibition could be forced on any unwilling state. The question now inevitably asked is, why object to the regulation of child labor as a Federal function while consenting to the Federal regulation of so many other matters formerly regarded as exclusively within state jurisdiction? To many this new ruling, though commended, will appear to be in conflict with the trend of the times as well as some of the previous decisions of the Supreme Court.

Men in high places need both strength and astuteness to be able to turn from the foolish or designing flattery of friends. The president, even though prompted by the newspapers, has acted in his own interests as well as most creditably in rejecting the proposition that the far-famed Leviathan be renamed the Warren G. Harding.

Supreme Court Justice McKenna is quoted as saying, in effect, that the United States is trying to run the universe and is breaking solemn treaty obligations in order to enforce prohibition. If this is not an exaggerated statement, we need not wonder at the Europeans who think Uncle Sam's head has been turned by the doings of his doughboys during the last months of the World War.

Miss Sally Lucas Jeans, director of the Child Health Organization of America, announces that 20 per cent of this country's school children are suffering from malnutrition, that 40 per cent of them never drink milk, and that 90 per cent of them never brush their teeth. It is manifestly impossible for such figures to be exact—they can be no more than the roughest sort of estimates—but the intelligent public will heartily agree with Miss Jeans that "health should be taught in every public school."

According to the Overseas Daily Mail, eight prisons in Great Britain are closing down and there are now 6,000 fewer persons in prison in England and Wales than there were in 1914. In the United States, on the other hand, especially in the centers of population, crime has greatly increased, arrests have been multipled and prisons are overcrowded. What is the explanation of this startling contrast, and are the causes few or many? Wise is the man who is ready with a convincing answer in these times of sharply conflicting opinion.

What do you want to know about Nature Subjects? Send any questions of general interest to the Nature Notes Department of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed and stamped envelope for reply.

Can You Answer These Questions?

1. Why is it necessary to spray orchards for codling moth immediately after the blossoms fall apart?
2. Do birds want salt, the way sheep and cattle do?
3. Give name and description of a spider in North Carolina that lives in a poke-like web from four to six inches in the ground, and web extends about six inches above ground, and attached to body of small trees?

Answers in Tomorrow's Nature Notes.

Answers To Previous Questions.

1. How do birds manage their food—do they break it up before swallowing?

Seed eaters crack the hard husks to get at the edible kernel; birds of prey tear off goblets of flesh, when the prey is too big to be boiled; fishing birds swallow at a gulp. Birds have strong digestive juices and dissolve the nourishing part of the diet, leaving the bones and fur—when there are any—to be regurgitated or cast up. Where the food is hard enough to need grinding, the strong muscular and hard pads of the gizzard—reinforced by some swallowed gravel—reduce it to a digestible condition.

2. Do all caterpillars make cocoons for their winged adults to hatch from?

No, not even if we count the chrysalis stage of the butterfly as a cocoon. The larva of the sphinx moth (often called hummingbird moth) at full growth takes to the earth instead of hanging itself from a tree. It makes a little burrow to hide in while it changes from a pupa to a winged adult.

3. Kindly tell what species the tailless cat belongs to. I have one without tail, and like a rabbit in the back.

If the short tail is not caused by an accident, the cat is a Manx-cat. They are a distinct breed, coming originally from the Isle of Man. Not altogether tailless, as there are three vertebrae in the tail. They do have longer hind legs than common cats, giving them a rabbit-like shape.

NOVEL SPELLING BEE AT CROSSPATCH HOUSE

Willow, May 24—How many words of one syllable can you spell.

If, after looking over the primer and the dictionary, you think you are very good, come up to Crosspatch Community Center, Monday evening, May 29 and perhaps you will win the prize at the spelling bee which will precede the dancing on that evening.

"One syllable spelling bees were very popular in New York last winter," says Mrs. Cross, "and it was amazing how one of those little words would bowl over the brainiest."

"Our spelling match will be just for fun and we will begin with the names of familiar animals, like cow, cat, rat. Next we take the names of vegetables and flowers, then articles of common use in the house. Probably not a word will be given out that is unfamiliar, yet the city people go down like nine pins over words that 'anybody can spell.'"

Words of several syllables are often very easy, if you go slowly and spell each syllable, but the short word must come by inspiration, or away goes your hope of the prize.

For instance, knob is more difficult than handle. Many can get away with cucumber and fall down on onion. Lavender may not smell sweeter, but is easier than thyme. Appointment is less romantic but more dangerous than tryst. Many a cake eater will fall on flour, where potato would be nothing.

So, those who like a good time had better be sure of their ability to spell all the short words in common use. A few queer ones will be extracted from the dictionary if the valiant spellers prove invincible.

Mrs. Cross is making up the lists and will give out the words. The leaders will be chosen by lot.

After the spelling bee, there will be dancing and a hot dog supper. Several week-end guests from New York will probably stay over for the party.

SENSATIONAL ENGINE TALK OF THE TOWN

Creation of Vibrationless Motor by Velle Engineers Ushers in New Era for Motorists.

The triumph of Velle engineers over all other in building the first vibrationless motor has not only made the new 1922 "Dyna-Motor" equipped Velle the sensation of the automobile world, but it also marks a new era in motoring.

In Kingston as when shown in New York and all other places, this amazing new motor has quickly become the talk of the town.

There are two outstanding reasons for this. Primarily, of course, the immeasurable superiority of a motor that is free from vibration—that produces power with quiet, perfectly balanced precision of a spinning dynamo giving better service, greater operating economy, longer motor life and more satisfaction in motoring than has ever before been known.

But the triumph of the Velle organization in creating this motor is shared with the public. As an exclusive Velle development this new vibrationless motor, which could well be placed in the highest priced cars in the market, goes into Velle cars exclusively. Their classification as moderately priced cars has been established and will be maintained to the immense advantage of that class of motor car purchasers.

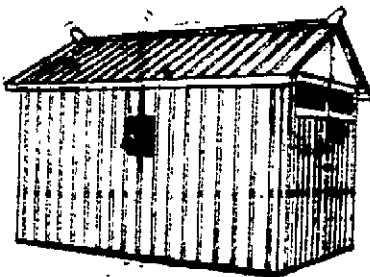

If you have not seen this remarkable "Dyna-Motor" equipped Velle, by all means see the display at 292 Wall street.—Advertisement.

OILING CAUSE OF MANY AUTO ILLS

Average Owner Prone to Seek
Other Sources of Evils Due to Lubrication.

"PUMPING" AND ITS EFFECTS

Kind, Quantity and Ring-Fitting Are Sensitive Points That Must Be Given the Utmost Consideration by Owners.

No car owner of the present day needs to be told how important lubrication in all its many aspects is in contributing to the life and efficiency of the motor car. However, there are certain forms of lubrication failure that the owner often does not realize as existing. He does not attribute to them the troubles which they have really caused.

For instance, it is a very common characteristic of automobile engines, to develop a tendency to allow the lubrication oil to leak past the piston rings into the combustion chamber, where it soots the plugs, induces the smoking of an aggravated character and forms extremely heavy carbon deposits. Frequently car owners complain of the carbonizing tendency of their engines without realizing apparently that the trouble is due to improper lubrication or to a minor trouble in the engine.

"Oil Pumping" Evil.
The common name for this leakage of oil is "oil pumping," and its fruits are a carbonized motor, or sooty, oily plugs, which induce ignition trouble in more or less aggravated form. Large sums were spent in changing spark plugs, putting in new piston rings and even replacing the pistons, to cure a chronic case of oil pumping, and all to no use, for the simple reason that one had neglected some little seemingly minor detail that was the key to the whole situation.

The lubrication of the engine cylinder involves a good many problems and some co-operation on the part of the user if they are to be satisfactorily solved. The ideal condition, of course, is to have just enough oil supplied to keep the cylinders properly lubricated, but not so much that it will work past the rings into the combustion chamber. In practice this ideal is difficult to achieve and in practically every engine there is a certain amount of leakage. In most cases this is kept low enough to keep carbon and other troubles from the acute stage.

Every car manufacturer recommends a certain grade of oil to be used in his engine, and his advice should be rigidly adhered to by the car owner. In case there is any question in the matter the advice of the service station should be asked. The commonly recommended lubricant is a medium body oil, but this is not universal, so the car owner should make absolutely sure of his ground in this vitally important matter.

Ring Fitting Exactness Matter.
Fitting piston rings means more than merely placing the rings in their grooves. The rings must fit the grooves so that there is perhaps .001 of an inch up and down clearance, or just enough to prevent leakage, and still not cause the ring to stick. The rings should be lapped in size and ring fittings should be done by experienced hands.

There has been a tendency in recent years when engine lubricating troubles occur to fit some special type of piston ring and believe that settles the matter. Many of the special rings have real value, but they must be accurately fitted, just the same as an ordinary diagonally-split ring.

In some cases it is possible to cure a chronic case of oil pumping by drilling the skirt of the piston with 1/16-inch holes, spaced at equal distances under the lowest groove. This, with perhaps the addition of a scraper ring in the skirt, will often work wonders.

Finally, a scored cylinder will induce oil pumping, since the trenches in the cylinder wall allow the oil to escape past the rings. In this case the cylinder will have to be operated upon by some specialist in this work.

He Has a Big Head.

A full-grown buck antelope is smaller than any adult specimen of our American deer, and quite different from any of them in form, says the American Forestry Magazine. It has a big head, which is held erect upon a short, thick neck.

RIGHT WAY TO PLACE INNER TUBE IN CASE

First Thing to Do Is to Partly Inflate It.

Bad Practice to Allow It to Rest on Ground or Garage Floor, Thus
Picking Up Particles of Sand,
Cinders or Oil.

Unexpected outbursts from inner tubes originate from sins of omission and commission. By emphasizing the more glaring ones it is believed the motorist can be saved the dollars that would otherwise be wasted.

Haste in replacing punctured or blown-out tubes is one trouble. The right way to place a tube into a casing is to first partly inflate it. Then it should be applied carefully, the side bearing the stem always being kept in sight. When it is in the casing it should be tacked carefully and the fingers forced all around the tire to make sure that tube has been evenly distributed. A tube never should be inserted unless partially inflated.

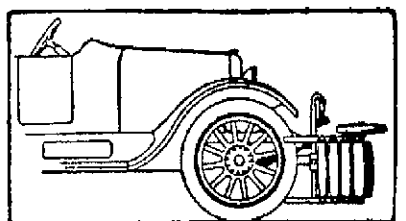

In pumping a tube before insertion most motorists allow it to rest on the ground or on the floor of the garage. This practice is wrong. It allows the tube to pick up particles of sand, cinders and oil, which create friction and eventually tiny holes.

The right way is to place the tube over the left shoulder and pump with the right hand. Thus no portion of the tube will be allowed to touch the road or pavement. When tube is well rounded with air and free from wrinkles it is ready for insertion in the casing, and then should be pumped to the prescribed pressure.

AUTO BODY IS DETACHABLE

Object of Recent Invention Is to Provide Frames Which May Be Applied or Removed.

The Scientific American in illustrating and describing a detachable automobile body, the invention of W. H. Wochner, 1608 Stone street, Falls City, Neb., says: The invention relates particularly to an arrangement whereby the body of an automobile may be quickly applied or removed, the object being to provide a simple construction which may be formed as part of the automobile or which may be made independently and attached thereto. A further object is to provide frames forming a runway, one of which is mounted on the chassis, the other on the body of the automobile, whereby the body may be, slidingly fitted into position.

AUTOMOBILE HINTS

Do not permit any water to touch the hood while it is hot.

One of the newest motor organizations in this country is the Women's National Automobile Club of America. Mrs. Charles Baker of New York City is president.

When the rear tires show considerable wear, interchange with the front tires and reverse sides. The change will mean an increase in mileage from the tires.

Spark advanced too far for the rate of speed at which the engine is running causes knocking of the engine and connecting rods to break. It will also cause overheating of the engine.

As a means of protecting road signs on highways in the United States a request has been made to the executive council of the Boy Scouts of America to enlist the co-operation of scouts in preserving the markers.

MRS. PINK PIG

"Yes, Miss Ham, I'm feeling well," said Mrs. Pink Pig.

"That wasn't what I was going to ask you," said Mrs. Ham.

"Well then I'm telling you that I'm feeling well anyhow. I am sure you must be glad to know it."

"I don't care about knowing it in the least," said Mrs. Ham.

"Then I'm telling you something which you haven't even had to bother to wish for," said Mrs. Pink Pig.

"What I was going to ask you," squealed Miss Ham, "was where you found those nice vegetables you have been eating?"

"What vegetables?" asked Mrs. Pink Pig.

"Now you know perfectly well," said Miss Ham.

How did you know I had vegetables?" asked Mrs. Pink Pig. And then she added,

"You don't know at all, and you're only guessing for you don't know whether I had or had not any vegetables."

"Oh yes, I know," said Miss Ham, "for I saw a bit of green sticking out of your mouth. Your table manners aren't of the best, Mrs. Pink Pig."

"Not of the best, it is true," said Mrs. Pink Pig, "but quite as fine as yours. Pig, don't bother much about table manners. That is because they are pigs of course. Or rather that is one of the reasons why they remain pigs!

"You Know Perfectly."

"I've never heard any one say, 'Let's call pigs by some other name as they don't really deserve the name of pig.'"

"I've never heard any one say that and it is true that I don't believe they ever will."

"Well, it doesn't matter," said Miss Ham. "What would the world be like without us? We're interesting looking creatures. We are very apt to make people smile and they should be pleased about that and many of our relatives have deserved the food they have had for they have given the people themselves in return. That was good of them indeed."

"Good of them," said Brother Bacon. "Good of them indeed, grunt, grunt." "Good of them," said Pinky Pig. "Good of them indeed, grunt, grunt."

"Good of them, good of them indeed, grunt, grunt," said Master Pink Pig. "Good of them," said Pinky's mother. "Good of them indeed, grunt, grunt."

"Of course," said Mrs. Pink Pig. "they didn't actually give themselves in return, but they were taken for food."

"Of course that is true too," said Brother Bacon. "Grunt, grunt, that is true too."

"That is true too," said Master Pink Pig. "Grunt, grunt, that is true too."

"That is true too," said Pinky's mother. "Grunt, grunt, that is true too."

"That is true too," said Pinky Pig. "Grunt, grunt, that is true too."

"That is true too," said Miss Ham. "Grunt, grunt, that is true too."

"Well, I must be off," said Mrs. Pink Pig. "I have several things to do."

"What have you to do?" asked Miss Ham.

"Oh," said Mrs. Pink Pig. "I have a little digging to do, some very fine snout digging as some ladies do embroidery."

"And what else, pray tell?" asked Miss Ham.

"Ah," said Mrs. Pink Pig. "you want to know about the vegetables. You think I'm going to get more. Well, I'm hoping of course, always hoping, but I'm not sure, not sure at all."

And off went Mrs. Pink Pig, followed by Miss Ham who wanted to see if Mrs. Pink Pig had a new place she had found where there was some food, and Brother Bacon followed. So did Pinky Pig, and Pinky's mother and Master Pink Pig too.

But they all had a fine meal for the farmer came along in a very few minutes and gave them their supper.

Composition of Paint. Fundamentally, all paint is alike. In compounding paint the manufacturer draws from the three kingdoms into which all that exists on the earth is divided. From the mineral kingdom he gets the pigment that gives color. From the vegetable kingdom he obtains the vehicle in which the pigment swims. The linseed oil and the thinner, turpentine, which makes the paint flow smoothly from the brush. From the animal kingdom he has recently been obtaining madder, oil, train oil, etc., which are added to paint compositions to confer on them certain specific properties.

SOUR CREAM AND MILK

The value of sour milk and the buttermilk diet as a bacteria destroyer is well known. Considered from the point of economy, as well as of wholesomeness, sour milk is a great food. For the light and tender waffle and griddle cake there is no liquid equal to the sour milk and cream. Sour milk as a poultry food is too well known to speak about and the preparation of sour milk with fruit juice and sugar for a frozen dish is especially cooling in hot weather. Try this when the hot days make you long for a cooling dessert.

Orange-Pineapple Lacto.—Shred a ripe pineapple with a fork, after peeling it and removing eyes. Slice oranges very thin, using one cupful of prepared fruit to one quart of sour milk and two cupfuls of sugar. Beat the whites and yolks of two eggs and when the ingredients are well mixed freeze as any ice cream.

Southern Spoon Bread.—To one pint of white corn meal add a tablespoonful of lard, one-half teaspoonful of salt, and mix with water to a smooth paste, using warm water, which swells the meal—boiling water would spoil it. Add a beaten egg to the paste, the white and yolk beaten separately, then one cupful of buttermilk or sour milk and one-half teaspoonful of soda. Beat the batter until very smooth and light and pour into a hot, well-greased griddle pan and bake in a hot oven. Serve from the pan.

All sorts of cakes and cookies, gingerbreads and biscuits are made with sour milk, buttermilk or cream. Doughnuts and cakes have a different flavor keep moist longer and are more wholesome when made with them.

Quick Brown Bread.—Take one-half cupful of New Orleans molasses, one pint of sour milk, one teaspoonful of soda, three cupfuls of granular flour and one teaspoonful of salt. Beat well and bake in a moderate oven until a light brown.

Buttermilk cheese is delicious. Heat the milk in a double boiler, drain the curd, adding salt and pepper. The milk, if rich will supply enough fat, making a most delicious cheese.

Hats and Husbands.

People are making investigations as to which classes of men make the best husbands. I suppose it all depends on what you call a "good" husband—whether you want one free from vice, and quiet about the house; or the other sort. Personally, I've got a decided longing toward a millionaire, but it's like choosing a new hat—whichever one you have, you'll always wish you had the other.—London Opinion.

The first large library to be established in America was that of Harvard University, founded in 1638, six years after the college. In 1700 Yale University also established a large library. The two are today among the greatest of college libraries in this country.

Grave fears were entertained for the safety of Major-General Leonard Wood and his family when their yacht was reported missing in a typhoon off the Luzon (Philippine Islands) coast. The Apo was believed for a time to have sought refuge in some inaccessible spot on the coast, with her wireless disabled. The general is pictured with his wife, daughter and two sons. The yacht and all on board were later reported safe.

Society Notes

Reception to New Rector.

St. John's Parish House was filled with the people of the parish on Wednesday evening, met to give welcome to the new rector, the Rev. Edward M. H. Knapp, B. D., and Mrs. Knapp, who with the vestrymen and wardens and their wives acted as a reception committee. The Parish House looked most attractive, great bowls and vases of spring flowers forming the decorations, the elaborately appointed table being pink tulips and Spirea Van Houten. During the evening, ice cream and cake and coffee were served. It was an evening of most enjoyable sociability.

Beantown Choir Scores Again.

The chapel of the First Dutch Church was crowded again on Wednesday evening with a merry, laughing audience which greatly enjoyed the performance of the Beantown Choir personages. And among those same personages, a mention should have been made in Wednesday evening's Freeman of the attendants at the wedding when the Rev. Minister and Miss Beth Wood were married right under the very nose of Widow Wood. They were Ila Haulenbeck and Benson Miller. Certainly the Ladies Aid Society of the First Dutch Church have afforded a good laugh to many people—always a worth while performance—and they must have netted a nice sum of money.

Blake's Plane At Paris.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Paris, May 25.—Major W. T. Blake, who is engaged on a round-the-world airplane flight from England, delayed his departure from Paris today to make further readjustments of his machine. He said he hoped to hop off for Turin late in the afternoon or Friday morning at the latest.

MADE OLD GENTLEMAN SMILE

Youthful Bride Hadn't Thought That Other People Might Also Be on Their Honeymoon.

It was the first day out. The ocean liner was cutting smoothly through the waves, with Europe as its destination. Being a bright, balmy afternoon with an invigorating air circling about the decks, many of the passengers lounged in the comfortably blanketed chairs.

The upper deck totaled about fifty-two people. Among them were the usual jokers, and queens and Jacks and Harries, and so on down the list. One old couple—they looked to be about fifty-five—attracted a good share of the attention. Everybody usually surveys everybody else the first day in order to determine if they are being followed or if an acquaintance happens to be abroad.

A particular young man and a pretty young woman watched the old couple with fixed gaze. The matured pair were very assiduous for their age. When the old lady dropped her magazine the young man picked it up for her. The result was that the quartet entered into a conversation.

"I just remarked to my husband how attentive you are to each other," spoke the young wife sweetly. "I wonder if we'll be as happy as you are after we've been married so long? We were just married yesterday."

The old gentleman wrinkled his nose all up and smiled.

"So were we," he replied—Herbert Hooze, in Judge.

Japanese Corner.
A Japanese corner in a room may be artistic if simplicity is carefully worked for. A Japanese screen of black satin gold embroidered, or printed china silk, makes a good beginning for this corner. Either a teak-wood cabinet or stand continues the effect and a Japanese print for the wall with Japanese lotus plants in a shallow bowl placed either on top of the stand or cabinet completes it.

BRIDGE TRAFFIC COP KEPT BUSY

Wurts and Abeel Streets Corner Becoming One of Busiest in City—Estimated 1,600 Cars Use Bridge Daily—Many Suggestions for Traffic Officer Including Use of a Barber's Chair.

With the opening of traffic of the Rondout Creek Bridge the corner at Abeel and Wurts streets has become one of the busiest in the city, and the traffic officer on duty at that point is kept busy all day directing traffic. It is estimated that on an average day 1,600 cars cross the bridge. This is not including the number that continue on down or up Abeel street or Wurts street.

The traffic cop on duty at that point has been equipped with a large umbrella to protect him from the sun and incidentally to keep him dry in case of a sudden storm.

Since the police department has placed a traffic officer on duty at that point the man on the post daily receives suggestions from pedestrians as to how best to properly perform his duties and what his equipment should consist of.

One of the suggestions made to Officer Arthur Dempsey this morning was that the department should purchase one of the large barber shop chairs that work with a lever and can be swung from side to side and turned completely around.

With such a chair the officer could recline at his ease and direct traffic by simply using the lever to swing his chair in any desired direction. Officer Dempsey when asked as to his opinion of the suggestion was noncommittal.

There have also been a number of suggestions made that the police department install one of the "Stop-Go" signs that are used in the big cities. There is a question as to whether such a sign could be installed at the street intersection at the bridge is no more than wide enough at the present time to handle the traffic.

One of the big helps to the traffic officer is afforded by passing automobilists who signal with the hand the direction in which they desire to go before approaching the street intersection.

At the present time the traffic men work in eight hour shifts. This week Officer Dempsey is on duty from 8 in the morning until 4 o'clock in the afternoon when he is relieved by Officer Urban Healey who continues on duty until midnight.

The busiest time in the evening is between the hours of 8 and 9 o'clock. The night man believes that it would assist in traffic work if approaching cars would use the drummer on the lights.

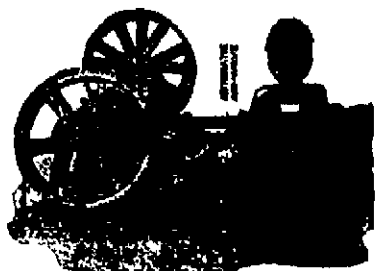

That the corner is dangerous and needs protection is shown by the fact that shortly before Officer Dempsey went on duty this morning three cars approaching in opposite directions nearly collided at the street intersection. A motorcycle and an auto approaching from opposite directions also nearly ran

COAL MINERS BEAT COLONIALS

Pitcher For Scranton Team
Allows Local Players Two Hits—
Batters Throwing Was Very Poor.

A husky, broad-shouldered young man named Hobbs, wearing the overalls and other regalia of the Scranton Coal Miners' Baseball Club, stepped into the box at the Athletic field Wednesday afternoon and released the first of his nine straight games, eh? Well, let's see how good they are. Hobbs proceeded to pitch. Hobbs pitched no d.d. so well did he pitch in fact, that the Kingston club only two hits off his delivery. Hobbs' team-mates were getting on off the stunts of Dewey Van Buren and Freddie Stout. And his pitching was the chief reason why the Coal Miners lost a 6 to 2 game for their first defeat of the season. Hobbs' aggressive work, fighting a snappy game, the Coal Miners proved to the fans, many of whom expected to see a repetition of the Subway Giants game. A bit erratic in their throwing, but splendid in their timely hitting, the Coal Miners fairly deserved their victory. Dewey Van Buren was Captain. Hobbs' pitching selection, but an error compelled him to leave the mound in the third inning. Jones was a liner back at Van Buren, who such force that a finger on his right hand was split, and Freddie Stout who made his reappearance in Colonial uniform finished the game.

When Fitzgerald opened up Kingston half of the first with a two-bagger and came home on Jack Jones' three base hit to center, Hobbs looked easy for the Colonials. That was all the hitting Hobbs had. Not a Kingstonian reached base on a hit after the first inning, although the locals scored in the fourth when Deegan, a two bases on a wild peg to first, Jones and went home when Hobbs' throw to nab him off second base to center field.

The Scranton men shoved two runners across in the second without the aid of a hit. Van Buren was wild and hit Jones, first man to face him, and then sent Daugherty to first on a wide ones. Jack Robins threw to Van Buren on the bag, but he threw away. Daugherty followed home the throw-in to catch Hobbs' throw to center field.

Pollock, whose work behind the plate was of a high order, started the third inning with a double to left, but went out when Deegan tagged him on the base line after Hobbs' groundout. Siskak went to second and Magulsky to first when Van Buren gave the latter a walk. Robins snapped a throw to Hobbs to catch Magulsky napping, but he couldn't reach the ball and Hobbs made home.

Some fine base running by Madden, who another tally for the Coal Miners in the sixth, the first made by Hobbs. Madden forced Daugherty's second on a hit to Deegan, reaching first in safety. Benson dropped a lead over Coyle's head, Madden making third and then drawing a throw home. The throw was wide of the plate and the little left fielder got by Robins in safety. Siskak's double and Grubbs' single gave the Miners another tally in the seventh. The last run came over after the first two men in the ninth had gone out. Siskak got his third hit of the afternoon and rode home on Magulsky's drive to center for three bases.

So effectively did Hobbs pitch that the local team sent only six fly balls to the outfield during the nine innings. Three were gathered in by Madden, one was missed by the same player, and the other two went for Kingston's only hits.

NOW IS TIME FOR CALYX SPRAY

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Geneva, N. Y., May 25.—Entomologists at the experiment station here are calling attention to the fact that conditions are now just right for making the so-called calyx spray for apples and pears in most New York orchards, as the last of the petals are falling from the trees and in a few days the small cup-like openings which held the flower parts will close up and prevent the spray from reaching the point where it will do the most good.

Prospects for a record crop of apples and pears in this state are so promising that fruit growers in general are making every effort to insure a high quality product by following closely approved spray practices for the control of the most important insects and diseases.

Present day spray practices are usually aimed at more than one pest and so it is not surprising to find that the calyx spray is designed to combat the obnoxious apple worms, particularly the codling moth, and other "chewing" insects; and also apple scab and sucking insects, such as apple red bug and aphids, which are not affected by the treatment for apple worms. Thus the calyx spray is perhaps the most important application of the entire season, although earlier and later sprays are essential to really efficient orchard management.

For apples the station entomologists recommend a mixture containing 2 gallons of lime-sulphur, 3 pounds of powdered lead arsenate or 5 pounds of lead arsenate paste, 1 pint of black leaf, 40 or nicotine sulphate and water to make up 100 gallons. In order to control the codling moth it is necessary to get this spray into the calyx cups before they close up otherwise the poison will not reach the spot where most of the young worms enter the apple. If aphids and red bugs are not prevalent in the orchard a considerable saving may be effected by omitting the nicotine from the spray.

In pear orchards where pear psylla is bad, the following mixture is advised: Blue vitriol or copper sulphate 2 pounds, lime, 25 to 40 pounds, arsenate of lead, 2 1/2 pounds of powder or 5 pounds of paste, black leaf 40 or nicotine sulphate, 1 pint, and water to make 100 gallons. If lime sulphur is to be used in connection with spray, it should be diluted to 1 part lime sulphur to 50 parts water, say the experts as heavy doses of lead and lime sulphur may burn the young foliage.

COCONUTS HIS ONLY FOOD

Austrian Exile Had Radical Views on the Subject of Proper Sustenance for Mankind.

In the near neighborhood of New Guinea is a beautiful island called Kabaka, which was owned by an Austrian named Engelhardt, exiled for some political offense, who died not long ago.

Maguaguanui was known as the "apeste of the coconut." Having acquired the island by purchase many years ago, he planted every possible acre of it with coconut palms, the fruit of which he believed to be the only proper food for man. He subsisted exclusively on coconuts, and his only drink, except water, was coconut milk. But, although a crank on this subject, he did not force his ideas upon others. He gave admirable dinners, at which the food was varied and the wines excellent.

Engelhardt was a man of profound learning, and his coconut plantation yielded him a large income. People invited to stay at his house were luxuriously lodged; but he himself always slept on a bed of clean sand, which was spread freshly every day. —Philadelphia Ledger.

Tip and Be Happy.
Katherine Wood believes in tipping judiciously as a step along the path of least resistance. In the Designer she writes:

"You like to travel, or else you dislike to travel." Putting out of the question love of excitement, the adventurous spirit, the zest for new scenes, all of which enter in, the reason for your taste or distaste may really lie in your attitude toward some of what you may have called inconsequential details.

"Do you know how to relinquish your heavy suitcase, your hat box, your coat and umbrella and that bulky bundle to a red-cap? Whether you have a chair or not, the porter will take you the shortest and easiest way to your train, and you'll avoid all that training and straining to see where your train starts. He'll find you a seat in a day coach and dispose of your parcels for you, so that you neither have to wrench your arm out nor rely on the chivalry of a chance fellow passenger. Yes, he expects a tip, but a quarter is little enough to pay for having the brambles pulled out of your path."

Soap Bubble Ballet.
Beautiful scenes are common in the motion picture studios, and many mechanical effects are produced which fairly dazzle the eye of the onlooker. As a climax to an unusually gorgeous set a "director" recently called for Accordingly, since a space 20 by 20 feet had been designated to be filled with the frothy substance, a metal sieve of this size was fitted in the floor. A soap solution, made with 100 barrels of the product and mixed in the same manner as plasterers prepare lime, was piped to the porous floor, and steam forced through it. The immediate transition into bubbles began, and these soon rose to a huge billowing mass, in which the dancers performed, the whole presenting, according to illustration and description in Popular Mechanics Magazine, a scene of fairylike splendor.

founder of Yale College held auction. One of the oldest methods of transacting business is the auction sale which, according to the early writers, is known among the Romans and is specifically mentioned by Petronius in 68 A. D. The first auction in England took place about 1790 and was conducted by Eli Yale, the founder of Yale college, who thus disposed of goods he had brought home from the East Indies. Such sales were first taxed in England in 1779.

Increases the action of the intestines

Hundreds of men and women have already found freedom from laxatives by eating Fleischmann's fresh yeast.

Doctors are now agreed that proper elimination of waste matter should be brought about by food. One doctor comes right out and states plainly that the indiscriminate use of cathartics is one of the causes of constipation.

Physicians all over the country are recommending Fleischmann's fresh yeast because it is a fresh food, rich in those elements which keep the intestines healthy. In one series of tests cases, normal functions were restored in from 3 days to 5 weeks.

Try it out for yourself. Begin today by adding 2 or 3 cakes of Fleischmann's Yeast to your everyday diet. Keep it up and see how normally and regularly your intestines act. Be sure it's Fleischmann's Yeast—the familiar tin-foil package with the yellow label. Place a standing order with your grocer.

Original Home of Porcelain

Chinese Potter at His Wheel.

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)

The greatest industrial city of China is Ching-teh-chen, a place which perhaps not one American in a hundred has heard of. But when it is added that this out-of-the-way place, 300 miles inland and without rail connections, is the original home of the porcelain industry of the world and still the great Chinese center of the industry, the town takes on a certain significance.

There are few cities in America or Europe that are so completely given over to a single industry as this one. Though the methods of production are primitive, the city must still be classed as an industrial center. It is a rare privilege to visit this conservative but interesting old place and see with one's own eyes the fascinating process of pottery making from beginning to end.

Chinaware! What does the word connote? Simply a ware made of clay and named for the country that first produced it. Whether it be a green tile from a temple roof, a dish, a vase, or a painted ornament from a wealthy celestial's home, it all has a traceable connection with Ching-teh-chen. With the Chinese, Ching-teh-chen and porcelain are synonymous.

In order to get a fair understanding of the situation, it will first be necessary to let the reader know the location of this place and something of the difficulties in reaching it.

After locating Shanghai on the map of China, one should trace his way up the Yangtze river to Kiangsi, south of which lies Po Yang lake. The quickest and surest way of reaching Ching-teh-chen is to proceed from Kiangsi to Nanchang, the capital of the province, by rail. This trip can be made in a day, barring accidents, though the distance is only 90 miles. In prospect it does not seem a difficult task to cover the distance between Nanchang and Ching-teh-chen, 120 miles, but in reality the trip requires more time than it takes to travel from San Francisco to New York. One must cross the east end of Po Yang lake and then push his way up the North river into the heart of the mountains, to a point not far from the Anhwei border.

"Town of Scenic Virtue." The first view of Ching-teh-chen from an approaching boat, with the smoke issuing from the chimneys of scores of kilns, is an amazing one. The city is located between the mouths of two rivers which flow into the North river, one from the east and one from the west. The town is naturally supplied with an abundance of fresh water, the clearness of which stands out in vivid contrast to the muddy yellowness of the Yangtze and of Po Yang lake.

Beautiful hills completely surround the city, those on the east rising to a height of about two thousand feet. The river banks are dotted with pine and camphor trees, while occasional groves of bamboo in lighter green add a charm and beauty difficult to describe.

Ching-teh-chen ("Town of Scenic Virtue") is one of the four largest towns (as distinguished from cities) of China. Technically, it is a town, because it has no wall. In reality it is a busy industrial city of 300,000 people, two-thirds of whom are engaged in the manufacture and sale of porcelain. Romantically, it is a city to stir men's souls. Longfellow, in his "Keramos," speaks of it. Historically, it dates back to the Han dynasty, 220 A. D., during which period we find the first records of the production of porcelain in China, though earthenware vessels were probably produced some centuries earlier.

Two main streets, about three miles long and conforming to the contour of the river, comprise the principal thoroughfares.

The city is about a mile wide. Furnaces, warehouses, shops, and homes are crowded together in a hopeless tangle. Great mounds of chipped and defective porcelain, clay chips and broken dishes are piled high along the river bank. In fact, one first notices these pieces of porcelain in the bed of the stream several miles below the city, washed down by high water. These dumps must be 30 or 40 feet thick. They represent the accumulated offerings of the kilns for centuries. There are now between 150 and 200 big yellow chimneys in the city. It is said that Ching-teh-chen in her most flourishing days boasted several thousand kilns.

Most Conservative of Cities.

The most unusual feature of the city of Porcelain is its conservatism. "Bu k'ai-tung" (not open to communications) is heard on every hand. Although China is the home of the printing press, there is not a single newspaper, either daily or weekly, published in this city of more than a quarter of a million inhabitants. The reason given for this unprogressive state of affairs is that the magistrates have always opposed the press, on the one hand because they are afraid of its political influence, and on the other because of the financial support that would be involved.

Ching-teh-chen is devoid of electric lights and telephones. The few rich show which now facilitate communications are fighting for existence. A number of workmen's guilds have petitioned the chamber of commerce to abolish the rickshaws on the ground that they interfere with traffic.

The geographical location of Ching-teh-chen is not accidental. It became the pottery center of the country centuries ago because of the enormous quantities of excellent clays in the district around Po Yang lake. All of these clays are brought to Ching-teh-chen in the form of soft, white bricks by small, flat-bottomed boats. Thousands of Chinese boatmen are engaged in this work.

After the clays are thoroughly cleaned, sifted, and refined they are kneaded together in varying proportions, usually by a barefooted boy, until they are ready for the potter. The wet lump of clay is then placed on the knob of the potter's wheel.

The potter is perched above the wheel, with one foot on either side, in order to allow sufficient space for the movement of his hands. After revolving the wheel swiftly with a short pole, he deftly and with mechanical precision fashions a plate, bowl, or vase. After years of practice he can estimate to within a hair's breadth the proper size.

The piece is then removed and placed on a long tray in front of the potter, where it awaits the next artisan. Handles and other decorations, made in molds, are added, and then the whole is scraped smooth and allowed to dry until it is ready for the next process—the under-glaze decoration.

Several basic colors, like blue and red, can be painted on under the glaze. The glaze is next applied in various ways—by dipping, by blowing on with a tube, or by sprinkling. After the mark has been added the piece is ready for the furnace.

Firing the Porcelain.

Porcelain placed in the kiln to be fired has to be protected in strong, cylindrical clay vessels, called saggars. These trays can be used from three to six times before they are ready for the scrap heap on the river bank. Every piece of porcelain, as it is set into the sagger, is placed on a small, round, clay chip, sprinkled with straw ashes. This prevents the fusing together of the two pieces.

The fuel for the furnaces at Ching-teh-chen is of two kinds—straw and wood. Coal has been tried, but it was found that its fumes discolored the porcelain, and accordingly its use was discontinued. Straw is used to burn only the coarser ware.

The kilns are large, egg-shaped ovens of brownish brick, fifty feet long and twelve feet high at the highest point. Because of the intense heat, both the kilns and the chimneys must be rebuilt annually.

There is no unemployment in Ching-teh-chen. Work is plentiful, but industrial conditions are bad. Long hours, poor food, no rest days, and unsanitary living conditions cause a great deal of dissatisfaction among the laborers.

Wages range from ten cents to one dollar per day, varying not according to the number of hours, but according to the number and quality of the pieces produced. But no artisan must work too long. If a man is found doing too much and working beyond the time limit, he is set upon by his fellow workers and severely beaten.

One Thing He Knew. The immigrant had to fill up the usual form. The first question was "born?" Unhesitatingly he wrote down: "Yes."

SAT THREE WEEKS IN COLD

Remarkable Action of Two Canadian Land Seekers Determined to Be First in the Line.

Three weeks of patiently sitting in the bitter cold of Calgary, Canada, was the trying experience of two land seekers who were determined to be the first to register for the valuable oil lands recently thrown open by the government. The usual custom of the land office is "first come—first served," hence the desire to head the long line, which always forms on an occasion of this kind, in order to get the choice of the land. The two men who sat exposed to the elements for nearly a month, were adequately provided with blankets, robes, and even specially prepared booths. The booths were light boxes with a covering of heavy canvas, much resembling a portable steam-bath outfit. Inside of the booth was a chair, with a lighted lantern underneath the heat from which kept the men from freezing while they slept in their seats.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

500 Miles of Paper.

If the paper used by the United States government printing office, during the past year was laid flat at a thickness of one sheet it would cover approximately thirty-five square miles and if made into octavo books, piled one on the other they would soar 500 miles into the air. The public printer estimates in his annual report filed with congress. For printing and binding 50,000,000 pounds of paper were used during the fiscal year ended last June 30. Not all of the paper was needed for printing speeches of senators and representatives in the Congressional Record, however, as the office gets out various government publications, congressional documents, stationery and the like. During the last fiscal year total expenditures of the printing office amounted to $11,111,111 compared with approximately $13,000,000 the previous year.

WHAT THEY'RE PUTTING UP. "Any building going on in this town?" "No, mister. All we're putting up nowadays is arguments."

Caterpillars Threaten Maples.

Tiny caterpillars that appear by thousands and mine and riddle the leaves of sugar maple trees are threatening New York's maple sugar industry. Professor Glenn W. Herrick, of Cornell university, said at the meeting of the entomologists in Toronto. However, these caterpillars that develop into small moths called maple case bearers are being studied and feasible and efficient methods for their control are being found. This same pest ravaged the trees thirty years ago.—New York Evening Post.

VISION

The practical man sees a small wooden box. Strung tight with the gut of a cat. On which you can scrape with the tail of a horse. There's nothing more to it than that. Or so he declares, and it's perfectly true. That's all that a vision seems to be. Unless you have visions which lead you to see A cascade of loveliest dreams.

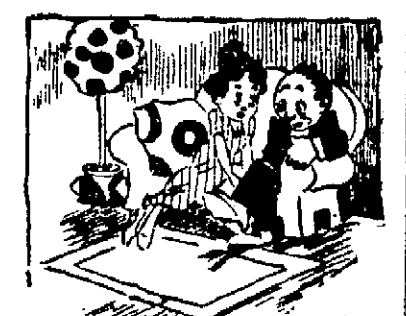

The practical man knows a tree is a tree. He figures its height and its girth. How many board feet it would yield to the saw. And just what the boards would be worth. And yet to the man who has vision, it stands A miracle sprung from the sod. A green living glory that ever proclaims The spirit and purpose of God.

The practical man sees a practical world. And runs it in practical style. He's safe and he's sane as an everyday guide. But still, every once in a while. Though practical people make living run Let's yield to the magical thrall Of dreamers whose beautiful visions supply The reason for living at all! —Berton Bratley in Leslie's.

BIG ICICLES BLOCKED TRAIN

Serious Delay Caused by Freak Temperature in Tunnel Through the Cascade Mountains.

Huge icicles stopped a transcontinental train in a Cascade mountain tunnel for several hours until the obstructions were cut away. Water dripping from some mysterious source poured through the roof and formed into icicles three feet in diameter, blocking the tracks. The train, moving at a snail pace, was brought to a stop within a few feet of the blockade and delayed for some time while the ice columns were sawed off. During this operation the wheels of the engine froze to the rails and jets of steam had to be used to free them. The temperature in this one tunnel has always been a mystery. The interior of most tunnels is usually warmer than the temperature at the portals, but in the single instance hoar frost sometimes forms on the steel rails several inches thick.

NOT WHOLLY A LOSS. She: If you were to lose me, darling, would it break your heart? He: Yes, dearest, but my bank account would mend.

Hottest Place on Earth.

The Dead sea, at the southern end of the Jordan valley, in Palestine, is said to be the hottest place on earth. It is 47 miles long, ten miles wide, and lies in a depression 1,300 feet below the level of the sea. Hence it has no outlet to the sea and the waters that flow into it are disposed of by the rapid evaporation caused by the heat. Five million tons are thus daily taken up by the atmosphere. There is not a deeper trench than this on earth. As perpetual snow rests on the tops of high mountains because they are out of the blanket of air to some extent, so the Dead sea is always hot because it is under so thick a blanket and also situated well southward. The water of this curious lake is five times as salty as the ocean, and one cannot sink in it. The water is bitter to the taste, oily to the touch, and produces a yellow stain.

Police in Singing School.

If it happened on Broadway or Fifth avenue it would be scandalous, but in the theater of the Seventy-first infantry armory, at Park avenue and Thirty-fourth street, it is all right. A score or more traffic cops, plainclothesmen, patrolmen and sergeants may be heard there several times a week lustily singing the "Marsellaise" and other choral songs. They are members of the New York Police Department Glee club, and among them are many good voices, which, when not directing traffic, ordering burglars to halt, etc., are cultivated under the direction of a well-known instructor.—New York Evening Post.

Toys.

As the Christmas tree dries up and "falls off," study the kiddies with their toys—and learn much philosophy.

What toy appealed most to the boy? Probably it reveals the secret of that interesting mystery, the career he will follow.

Little girls are just as fond of their doll babies as their great-grandmothers were. That explodes all fears that home life is rocking at its foundations.—Chicago Post.

JAP GIRLS GET INTO LINE

Increasing Physical Activity and Independence Are Regarded as of Particular Significance.

A new freedom in physical movement is discernible if not obvious in feminine Japan. It can be noted on the street in the little girls' play. Always they have had the most varied line of games and were fairly active, but nothing so unadorned as jumping over a stick, a sort of pole vault without the pole. Now this is not unusual in the larger towns, and surprisingly high do these wooden clogged, kimonoed, pig-tailed youngsters jump, and with much abandon.

In the girls' schools there is much more activity than even three years ago of the kind that past generations of American mothers called tomboyishness, and increasing interest in tennis and basketball. Also it is not uncommon now for maiden or matron to hold up her head in line with her spine, and frankly look on at this world and all its incumbrances. Formerly it was almost the great unpardonable not to carry the head slightly forward, with eyes downcast. This attitude of humiliation is now becoming fearfully old-fashioned.

Foreign teachers of long experience say that the change in this respect is striking in the classroom. Students when reciting now look up squarely at the instructor instead of at their knees as formerly. As this is not a taught thing, but the reflex of a change within, vital enough to overcome teaching and inherited tendency, it is significant.

Another change, trifling, but a straw that shows the direction and velocity of the current, is the growing habit of man and wife to walk side by side on the street instead of the lady pigeon-toeing along about a pace in the rear of her lord.—Scribner's Magazine.

TRUE DA VINCI IN LOUVRE?

Museum Director Scoffs at Theory That Famous Painting Has Been Brought to America.

Artists and friends of the Louvre museum may reassure themselves. The original of Leonardo da Vinci's painting, "La Belle Ferroniere," hangs in the museum and is not in America. This on the authority of D'Estournelles de Constant, director of national museums.

"This is an old story," said the director. "It is not the first time that the authenticity of our masterpieces has been questioned by foreign collectors. There seems to be no way of putting a stop to the habit."

"The painting entered among our collections under the title of 'La Belle Ferroniere' was certainly from the brush of Leonardo da Vinci himself. It was among the art treasures of Francis I and, in 1642, Pere Dan, the king's minister of finances, identified it as the portrait of the duchess of Mantua. Certain historians, on the other hand, have maintained that it was that of Lucrezia Crivelli. It is generally conceded today that the picture represents La Belle Ferroniere, one of Francis I's favorites.

"Whoever it may represent, however, the painting had always hung in the private apartments of the king until it was transferred to the Louvre. Its authenticity might possibly have been questioned had it been stolen at any time. But no such misadventure ever occurred to it."—From Le Petit Paris. (Translated for the Kansas City Star.)

Bans the Merry-Go-Round.

Verily the most capacious of music critics must confess that when the overture of "Poet and Peasant" is footed out by the steam calliope of a merry-go-round it carries to the juvenile ear a more vital inspiration than could a Philharmonic feast in Carnegie hall or a whole opera at the Metropolitan. Imagine, then, the grief of Tarsos Polycrone at the refusal of Mayor Scott of New Rochelle to license him to operate a $50,000 merry-go-round on a lot that he and his two brothers have bought at the entrance to Hudson park.

Supreme Court Justice Platt of White Plains will decide whether the gorgeous merry-go-round planned by the Polycrone brothers shall be sanctioned or not, for the indignant trio have applied to him for a writ of mandamus to compel Mayor Scott to issue a license.—New York Sun.

Everett on Fair street.

Chairman, Ned Palen; Arthur Burns, Robert Service, Andrew Cook, Sam Brunsen, Jr., Chester M. Donahue, Dr. J. R. Gillett, L. V. D. Warren, Elva Robert, Dr. W. J. Cranston, Elmer Eastwood, Roy M. A note of Sam Messinger, accompanied on the piano by his daughter, sang with one selection so difficult to surprise those who knew her only in a business way, and then the club got up and showed her what it could do in a vocal way. She danced further talent by not expressing any opinion about this.

Henry Darrow won the attendance prize.

Twenty-five dollars was given by the club toward the American Legion Camp at Tupper Lake.

Boys Prepare and Serve Dinner and Cut Up "Enough to Provide Laughter
That Properly Goes With It."

The Y. M. C. A. was the scene of a pleasant event Wednesday evening when the boys of the Kingston Hi-Y Club tendered a complimentary banquet to the girls of the Hi-Y auxiliary. The boys prepared and served the young ladies a five course dinner, and afterwards entertained them with a cabaret performance, the like of which has seldom ever been seen in Kingston.

The auxiliary have during the past winter served the Hi-Y supper and the banquet was to show the appreciation of the boys.

The tables were covered with roses, which were made possible by the courtesy of Valentin Burgevin.

Thomas Rowland, the retiring president of the Hi-Y Club, acted as manager of the Why Em See Ago Hotel, and presided. Everything proceeded with due decorum, until Peter Skidoski, walking delegate for the Hi-Y Waiters' Union, called a strike because of the refusal of the management to allow the waiters one-third of the tips they received. Manager Rowland was severely tried in securing waiters to take the place of the strikers, but finally managed to do so, after which the banquet proceeded according to schedule, the menu and program being:

LOCAL DEATH RECORD.

Recent Deaths and Funerals of Persons in This Vicinity.

The funeral of Sherman DeLong, who died at the home of his brother in Wittenberg on Monday, was held from the late home on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Mr. DeLong was 57 years of age and leaves a wife and one daughter, also two brothers, Luther DeLong of Hurley, and James DeLong of Wittenberg. The deceased young woman had been in ill health for many months. Besides the beloved parents, two sisters, Mrs. John S. McCarthy and Mrs. Frederick Peters and one brother, Barton Johnson, mourn her death.

John Murphy, one of the oldest residents in the lower section of this city, died this afternoon at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Mary Dooley, No. 45 Hanratty street. Mr. Murphy was a boatman for many years on the Delaware and Hudson canal, later going into the trucking business. For the past number of years he was confined. He is survived by four sons, James, Thomas and Charles of this city, and Michael of New York city, also one daughter, Mrs. Mary Dooley, with whom he made his home. The funeral will be held from the late residence on Monday morning at 9 o'clock and from St. Mary's Church at 9:30 o'clock, where a requiem Mass will be offered for the repose of his soul. The interment will be in the family plot in St. Mary's cemetery.

BUSINESS NOTICES
The phrase "To send one to Coventry" means to take no notice of him. The story goes that the inhabitants of the city of Coventry, England, had at one time, so great an aversion to soldiers that a woman seen speaking to one was at once tabooed. No intercourse whatever was allowed between the garrison and the town; hence when a soldier was sent to Coventry he was cut off from all social life outside barracks. Coventry, famous in the old days for watch-making, then silk weaving, then bicycle manufacturing, is now a center of the automobile industry.
